BRYAN, TEXAS, THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 16 1908,

NUMBER 33

SECOND DISTRICT BANKERS.

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 15.—San Antonio bankers, in published interviews, outline the fact that the Second District Bankers' Association of Texas, to meet here next month, will take a strong stand against the state's or government's passing a law guaranteeing bank deposits. They claim it will put a premium on dishonest and careless banking by taxing honest and conservative bankers to protect the reckless and dishonest. The farmers of Bexar county and all over Texas favor the passage of such laws and heartily endorse the action of Senator Culberson in introducing such a measure.

RUSH TO HEAR TETRAZZINI.

New York, Jan. 15.—Every seat was sold for the performance of "Traviata" at the Manhattan Opera House to-night, in which Mme. Tetrazzini made her first appearance in America. Mme. Tetrazzini is the new soprano who recently created such a furore in London.

MADE LARGE CASH HAUL.

Safe at George D. Tucker's Stable Was Rifled of $153.00—Two Negroes Arrested.

The safe in the office of Mr. Geo. D. Tucker's stable was burglarized in broad daylight some time during Tuesday afternoon. The door of the safe was left ajar, but the iron door of the cash drawer was locked, and this was pried off the hinges and the money, amounting to $153.00, currency and silver, was made way with successfully.

Two negroes, one of whom was employed at the stable, cleaning and oiling harness, and another who was hauling manure from the lots, have been arrested and jailed. The negro employed at the stable usually worked in the front of the office door, but disclaims any knowledge of the robbery, and, we understand, says he saw no one enter the place.

The haul was quite a big one for panicky times and the officers are at work ferreting out the case.

NEW MOVING PICTURES.

New moving pictures are on exhibition and pleasing the patrons of the Rink.

EIGHT NEW ORANGE GROVES.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 15.—F. G. Hutchinson, of Santa Clara, California, has bought a large tract of land at Beeville, and is putting in the largest orange grove in Texas. The success that Texas-grown oranges met this winter in competing with California, has encouraged the planting of a number of such groves hereabouts. One is being put in on the Byron Willis plantation near Corpus Christi, another on Hal Howard's ranch in Refugio county, another by the Millier Bros. at Falfurrias, still others near Cotulla and Carrizo Springs, and Brownsville. In fact, nearly every farmer in this section is putting in a little orange orchard, all of which will expand into groves, as they learn the business. Southwest Texas has already a profitable orange business, and will in a few years be a formidable competitor of Florida and California.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA BAR.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 15.—Nearly two hundred prominent representatives of the legal profession were present here today at the opening of the fifteenth annual meeting of the South Carolina Bar Association. The opening session was held this afternoon in the hall of the house of representatives at the State capitol. The sessions will continue over tomorrow, and in the evening the annual address will be delivered by Judge Wendell P. Stafford of Washington, D. C.

BEAUTIFUL ART EXHIBIT.

Work of Pupils of the Texas Woman's College Shown in a Show Window at Haswell's.

The pupils of Miss Gatton, of the Art Department of the Texas Woman's College, have an exceptionally attractive display of art work which is attracting much attention in one of the large show windows at Tyler Haswell's store. The exhibit includes fine china painting and numerous water colors, the latter including a variety of subjects, and showing versatility as well as very marked ability and artistic training. The exhibit is well worth a visit to the store for the purpose of seeing it and is an eloquent tribute to the splendid art training which is being given at this excellent school.

PRESERVE BATTLE FIELDS.

Ottawa, Ontario, Jan. 15.—Representatives of the Canadian Clubs throughout the Dominion met in conference here today to discuss Lord Grey's proposal to convert the more important parts of the battlefields of the Plains of Abraham and St. Foye into a national park, and to erect thereon a monument to commemorate the reconciliation of the British and French races in Canada. It is hoped to raise a fund of one million dollars by public subscription to supplement the grants of the federal and provincial governments toward the undertaking.

THAW'S ECCENTRICITIES.

One Witness Relates Queer Actions of Defendant.

New York, Jan. 15.—Dr. Horatius W. Wood of Philadelphia was called to the stand as the first witness in the Thaw trial Wednesday. Dr. Wood some years ago made an examination of Harriet Alice Thaw, a relative of Harry K. Thaw. District Attorney Jerome objected to the witness's testimony, but was overruled by the court, as the relation of attending physician and patient did not exist in this case. Dr. Wood said Miss Thaw was of unsound mind.

The next witness to be heard told of eccentricities of Thaw just before the killing of Stanford White. He was Christopher Bagan, steward of the New York Whist club. Thaw was in the club June 20, 1906, just five days before the roof garden tragedy. Although the day was hot, Thaw insisted on taking a screen with him whenever he went about the rooms. He was highly nervous, excitable and irritable and once as he passed witness, muttered: "That is awful!" Bagan said Thaw finally came up to him and asked him to have a package put in the safe. "What was in the package?" asked Mr. Littleton. "Three cigarettes wrapped in tin foil."

DIAZ GREET'S SHRINERS.

Mexico's President Recipient of a Beautiful and Costly Fez.

City of Mexico, Jan. 15.—Pilgrims from Mystic Shrine were received by President Diaz in the ambassador's room at the palace. The reception was marked by the presentation to the president by J. Ross Clark of Los Angeles on behalf of Past Imperial Potentate Alvah P. Clayton and the visiting Shriners of a beautiful Shriners' fez with emerald and rubies and bearing the shrine insignia—the scimitar and crescent. The fez was made especially for the president, and is one of the most beautiful ever worn by a Shriner.

About 300 persons attended the reception, including the wives of many of the Shriners.

After the presentation of the fez the president shook hands with all those present. The Shriners and their wives formed into a line and passed out into the yellow room after greeting the president.

STANDARD SUBSIDIARY.

Effort Will Be Made to Prove This on Security Company.

New York, Jan. 15.—More than 99 per cent of the oil business in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Montana and New Mexico is controlled by the Standard Oil company, according to the testimony adduced at the hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the corporation. Christian Dredger of the statistical department of the Standard Oil company identified statements certifying to the above percentage.

S. G. Bain, president of the Seaboard National bank, and an officer of the Security Oil Company of Texas, will be examined in a few days in an effort to show that the Security company, which is operated independently, is really a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company.

DIVORCE SEQUEL.

John Stokes Kills Charles Billingsley on Board a Train.

Helena, Ark., Jan. 15.—John Stokes shot and killed Charles Billingsley, whose wife was formerly Mrs. Stokes, aboard a train near this place. Following the granting of a divorce Mrs. Stokes was married to Billingsley, and the parties were en route to this city to attend a session of court, at which the matter the custody of Stokes' two children was to have been decided. When the men met and the shooting resulted. Stokes, who has been arrested, claims to have acted in self defense.

Nothing Known of It.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Secretary Cortelyou was at his desk in the treasury department Wednesday. At the white house it was said positively nothing whatever was known as to the secretary's reported resignation.

EXHRESS RATES.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 15.—The new schedule of express rates recently agreed upon by the Board of Railway Commissioners and the express companies doing business in Missouri, goes into effect today. In round figures, the schedule provides for an average reduction of 21 per cent.

SELF-RECORDING WIRELESS.

Copenhagen, Den., Jan. 15.—An apparatus for automatically recording in ink messages received by wireless telegraph has been perfected by Waldmar Poulsen, the Danish scientist. For some time past the stations at Berlin and Newcastle-on-Tyne have been in communication with Poulsen's station at Lyngby, near Copenhagen, using the new writing machine. The inventor claims that the experiment proved that the new method occupies less time than the cable. The rate of transmission averaged twenty-two words a minute, and the reproduction was most reliable.

FARE REDUCTION.

Several Persons Heard in Emphatic Opposition.

Austin, Jan. 15.—The railroad commission resumed its hearing Wednesday morning on the reduced passenger fare proposition. General Attorney West of the Brownsville line spoke in opposition, saying that at present his road was not earning operating expenses. He asked that it be exempt.

Mr. Pettibone of the Santa Fe submitted facts and figures in opposition, saying that operating expenses of his road last year were $4,000,000, as against $3,369,000 for 1906. For December last year the gross earnings were $200,000 less than for the same month in previous year; that the operating expenses have increased on every commodity, fuel alone costing twice as much as a year ago. This is due to advance in price of oil. The total estimated shortage for this year from all sources will amount to $960,000 after all fixed charges are paid. The fourteen hour law has increased expenses and expense per train mile 2 cents.

Engineer Fowler testified that wages of engineers and firemen have been materially increased, and entered a positive protest against reducing passenger rates.

Conductor Garlich of the San Angelo division of the Santa Fe testified that people wanted improved service instead of reduced rates.

J. S. Stallings, head of the Order of Railway Conductors, his division embracing 330 conductors, entered a protest, saying that he was not interested in any railway; that they had nothing to do with his presence here; that any reduction would jeopardize the interests of employees; that he fails to find anyone who favors reduction, as people want better service. He characterized the commercial travelers as wanting class legislation; that they now ride for 2 1-2 cents and if the commission would reduce the rate to that figure they would want to ride for 2 cents.

Mr. Hellen of the Texas and New Orleans road stated that mileage books were used by a particular class meaning drummers, and that reduced rates would not affect them.

REHEARING REFUSED.

Third Court of Civil Appeals Takes This Action in Main Case.

Austin, Jan. 15.—The Third court of civil appeals refused a rehearing in the main case of the state vs. the Waters-Pierce Oil company, in which the state was awarded judgment for large penalties and the corporation's permit to do business in Texas cancelled. The supreme court did not act on this corporation's writ of error on the judgment affirmed against it by the court of civil appeals in the state's receivership phase of the case.

Advices received by the state insurance department are to the effect that the State Life Insurance company of Indiana has notified its agents in Texas that it will withdraw from the state and not renew its license for 1908. No reason is given.

BOTH BADLY MUTILATED.

Couple of Corpses Found Beside Pennsylvania Railway Tracks.

New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 15.—The bodies of two men, who were identified by papers in their pockets as Ira B. Stetson of Liverpool, O., and Albert E. Donovan of New Rochelle, were found beside the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad near here. It is not known how they met death. Both bodies were badly mutilated. It is possible the men may have fallen from a train.

STUNNING CHAMPION.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 15.—A romance which had its beginning on the golf links had its culmination here this evening, when Miss Helen Carrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. B. Carrington, became the bride of Burnside Winslow, of Philadelphia. Miss Carrington was formerly the national women's golf champion. When Mr. Winslow was captain of the Yale baseball team, he was struck and stunned by a golf ball hit by Miss Carrington. Explanations followed, and the couple became engaged before Mr. Winslow's Yale course was half completed.

WEEK STAND AT THE GRAND.

Manager John B. Mike announces that he has secured the Copeland Stock Company for a week's stand at the opera house, beginning Monday night, January 20. The company comes well recommended and has an excellent repertoire and good specialties. The opening bill will be "The Heart of the Hills." Popular prices—15, 25 and 35 cents—will prevail, with a change of program nightly.

THOMPSON-McCALLUM.

At the Methodist parsonage in this city, yesterday morning, Rev. J. B. Turrentine officiating, Mr. Marvin E. Thompson and Miss Annie McCallum were united in marriage. The couple are well known and popular young people of the Tabor community, and the Eagle unites with their large circle of friends in extending congratulations.

TICKET COST MUCH.

Nearly Eight Thousand Dollars Paid by a Theatrical Manager.

Houston, Jan. 15.—The largest sum ever paid for a railroad ticket here was tendered by the manager of the "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" company. The amount was $7,950 and included transportation for seventy-six people from Houston to Omaha via El Paso, thence to San Francisco and Portland, Ore.

Randall's Two Measures.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Congressman Randall offered a bill prohibiting senators and representatives from serving or receiving pay from public service corporations. Also a bill to prohibit passes of any kind to congressmen and senators.

BRYAN DOLLAR DINNER.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 15.—Democratic oratory flowed freely in the Auditorium tonight on the occasion of the Dollar Dinner in honor of William J. Bryan. The Democratic State Central Committee of Nebraska has been making preparations for the affair for several weeks. Mr. Bryan was the chief speaker, and gave his opinions in regard to several of the issues of the coming campaign. Other Democratic leaders, among the speakers were Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, former Senator Patterson of Colorado and Jerry B. Sullivan of Iowa.

GIRLS KILL A DEER.

A recent dispatch from Burnet, Texas, gives an account of the killing of a deer by two young ladies, Misses Florence Wolf and Lucile Cauthen, who were visiting at the McDonald ranch on the Colorado river. While out hunting they saw a deer in a clump of bushes and both of them fired at once and the deer fell dead. Miss Cauthen is a cousin of Mrs. W. A. Withers of this city and visited in Bryan about a year ago, making many friends here. The clipping was enclosed to the Eagle in a letter from Mrs. Lula McMichael of Lampasas, who adds that the girls were amazed and frightened when they found that they had really killed a deer. Mrs. McMichael's letter also conveyed a renewal of her subscription to the Eagle. Her many friends will be glad to know that she is pleasantly situated in her new home.

LEAP YEAR PARTY.

The young ladies of Class No. 11, of the Baptist Sunday school will give a Leap Year party Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buchanan, with their daughters, Misses Blanche and Bessie Buchanan. The crowd will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan at 7:30 o'clock and proceed to the place of entertainment. Admission, 25c a couple. Everybody invited. Refreshments.

Suicides at Depot.

Dallas, Jan. 15.—James Cox, supposed to be from El Paso, suicided at the Texas and Pacific depot by shooting himself in the head.

The results obtained when using MARIGOLD FLOUR have been so remarkably good that knowing housekeepers always specify it.

AND ABOUT CORK

City Nearly as Dirty as New York.

T-RIDDEN SPOTS IN ERIN

as just as Beautiful as Killarney that Hav. Not Been Contaminated with Surplus Rhymes and Herded Tourists.

CHARLES BATTALL LOOMIS.

Killarney, Ireland.—They told me Cork was a very dirty city. They said it was filthy, and they said such a way as to reflect on Irish in general and Corkonians in particular.

Yes, they said that Cork was a dirty city, and so I found it—almost as dirty as New York. This may sound a strong statement but I mean it. When I arrived in Cork I saw a hill made for it at once, because after way travel there is nothing that takes the kinks out of a fellow's as a walk up a stiff hill. And any I was on a walking tour.

arrived at the top about sunset, reading this sentence over I find it sounds as if the hill was a day journey but it was only a matter of a few squares, and when I tried the sun had long since made its mind to set.

No. 2 In Ireland the sun takes on Irish No. 6 Nys, and is just a little dilatory. It says means to set, and it always sets in time to avoid being out in the dark, but "it's an unconscionable time a dying."

At the summit of the hill I saw a church steeple that appealed to my artistic sense, and I asked a little boy what church it was.

"Shandon church, sirr," said he, "the rapid and undulating utterance of the Corkonian."

Miss "Where the bells are?" said I. "Yes," said he, smiling. "And over Mount is the Lee."

"The pleasant waters of the river Lee," I quoted at him, and he smiled again. Probably every traveler who goes to Cork quotes the lovely old bit of doggerel, but the Corkonian smiles and smiles.

The river Lee runs through the center of Cork, and at evening it is a favorite place for fishing, also for learning to swim on dry land.

The fishermen seem to fish for the love of casting, and the little boys swim on the pavement—two pursuits as useless as they are pleasant. Over the bridge the fishermen leaned, and cast their lines in anything but pleasant places—for the river is malodorous—and the little boys stood on benches and dived to the pavement, where they spat and then went through the motions of swimming.

There were dozens of the little boys, and most of them seemed to be brothers. Some of them were quite expert in diving backward, and all of them were dirty, but they seemed to be happy. I could not help thinking how soon the Celtic mind begins to use symbols, for it was easy to see, that when the boys spat it signified a watering place to them. I dare say they were breaking a city ordinance in spitting and if they knew that they were that much happier—stolen sweets are the sweetest.

During the time I watched the setting sun—which was still at it, and, by the way, performed some lovely variations on a simple color scheme in the sky—not even an eel was caught, but the fishermen cast under the bridge, let their bait float down the (un)pleasant waters, and drew in their lines again and again—mute examples of a patience that one does not associate with Ireland.

At last I left them and started out to find Shandon church which seemed to be a few squares away.

My pathway led through the slums, and up a hill so steep that I hope horses only use it as a means of descent. I passed one fireside where the folks looked cosy and happy and warm. It was a summer evening, but chilly, and the place into which I looked was a shop for the sale of coal. Shoemakers' children are generally barefooted, but these people were baring their own coal, and the mother and the dirty children sprawled around the store or home, in a shadow casting way, that would have delighted Mynheer Rembrandt if he had passed by.

I was struck with the population of Cork. It was most of it on the sidewalk, and nearly all of it was under 16. Pretty faces, too, among them, and happy looking. I think that sympathy would have been wasted on them. They had so much more room than they would have in New York, and they were not any dirtier—than New Yorkers of the same class.

After I had reached the top of the hill, I turned and looked for Shandon church and it was gone. I asked a boy what had become of it, and he told me that in following my winding way through the convolutions known as streets, I had gotten as far from the church as I could in the time. He told me pleasantly, just how to go to get to the church, and it involved going to the foot of the hill and beginning again.

I asked a number of times after that, and always got courteous but rapid answers. The Irish are great talkers, but the Corkonian could handicap himself with a morning's silence, and beat his brothers from other counties before evening.

At last I came on the church, passing quaint and curious (to quote three of Poe's words), statues of a green-coated boy and girl.

I asked a man when the bells began to ring, (for I had been told that they only rang at night.)

"Every quarter of an hour, sirr, they'll be ringing in a couple of minutes, sirr."

One likes to indulge in a bit of sentiment sometimes, and I stood and waited to hear the bells of Shandon that sound so grand on the pleasant waters of the river Lee. I had left the Lee to the fishermen and the make-believe swimmers, but the bells would sound sweetly here under the tower that held them.

A minute passed, and then another, and then I heard music—music that called forth old memories of days long since dead. How it pealed out its delight on the (icy) air of night. And how well I knew the tune:

"Down Where the Wurzburger Flows."

No, it was not the chiming but a nurse in the hospital at a piano. Before she had finished, Shandon bells began, but what they played did not blend with what she sang, and I went on my way thinking on the potency of music.

I passed on down where the River Lee flowed, and the fishermen were still fishing, but the little boys had tired of swimming.

Two signs met me at nearly every corner. One read, "James J. Murphy & Co.," and the other "Beamish & Crawford," or "Crawford & Beamish," I forget which. Both marked the places of publicans (and sinners, I doubt not), and both were brewers' names. The publican's own name never appeared, but these names were omnipresent.

Again I thought of Shandon Bells, and the romantic song, "Down Where the Wurzburger Flows," and leaving the Lee still flowing I sought my hotel.

I would like to make a revolutionary statement, that is more often thought than uttered, but before I make it, I would like to say that there are two classes of travelers: those who think there is nothing in Europe that compares with similar things in America, and those who think there is nothing in America that can hold a candle to similar things in Europe.

I hope I belong to neither class. If I mistake not, I am a Pharisee, and thank my stars that I am not as other men are. Most of us are Pharisees, and few will admit it.

I began being a Pharisee when I was a small child, and that is the time that most people begin.

I kept it up. In this, I am—like the multitude.

Having thus stated my position, let me go on to say, that I am perfectly willing to admit that this or that bit of scenery in France, or Switzerland, or England, or Ireland, lays over anything of the sort I ever saw in America, if I think it does, and I am equally willing to say, that America has almost unknown bits, that are far better than admired, and poet-ridden places in Europe.

Twin Lakes in Connecticut is one of them, and Killarney is a poet-ridden place.

Why, even in Ireland, there are places just as lovely as Killarney, but they have not been written up, and so no one goes to visit them.

I felt that one of the worst things about Killarney was the American sightseer, and I came away soon.

Cook's Tourists have never heard of Twin Lakes, thank fortune, and it will be some time before they (the lakes) are spoiled.

The Lakes of Killarney are so beautiful that they are worthy of the pen of a poet, but the pen of a poet does not make any lake more beautiful, and I am quarreling because so many people refuse to believe the evidence of their own senses, and take their natural beauties at the say so of another.

There is a tower going up in New York at present, a tower that with the exception of the Eiffel Tower, is the tallest on earth.

Many persons look at it, reflect that it is a skyscraper, and then dismiss it as therefore, hideous. But it is really very beautiful, and seen from certain vantage points, it is architecturally one of the glories of New York.

If it ever gains a reputation for beauty, you will find persons raving over it, who to-day class it among the "hideous skyscrapers."

A hundred years ago there were some skyscrapers in Switzerland, and they were thought to be hideous. After awhile, a man with a poet's eyes and a courageous tongue visited them, and he said "the Alps are beautiful."

When their reputation for beauty was established, travelers left the region round about the Rockies to go and rave over the beauties of Switzerland.

That's all. (Copyright, 1907, by W. G. Chapman.)

Diamond Diggers.

Divers work as diamond diggers in South Africa. They work in icy cold water and black darkness. About three and a half miles down the river from Klerksdorp a wire rope is stretched across the Vaal river from the Transvaal to the Orange River colony side, by means of which a large scow is placed in midstream, where the divers descend and work in from 45 to 52 feet of water. At present they have no light and work for three or four hours in cold water and intense darkness. All they are able to do at present is to grope around, move the big boulders with crowbars and scrape up the smaller stuff from the bed of the river, emptying it into a large iron-bound wire drum, which takes about half an hour to fill.

IN FASHION'S REALM

SEASON'S STYLE OF HATS ARE HARD TO COPY.

Little Distinctive Touches Give Individuality That the Amateur is Seldom Able to Duplicate with Effectiveness.

The making of a fashionable hat at home by inexperienced hands is no longer an easy task, according to the Boston Globe. The hats of to-day are an art in themselves, and unless you are a very clever copyist you are foolish to attempt to waste goods.

You do not pay so much for the material that is on the hat, but it is the style that makes the cost run up. It is that indescribable something that counts—the way the bow is tilted, in manner in which the ribbon is twisted, the exact angle of the feathers and such little things that make or mar a fashionable hat.

Hats are really huge in size and we see no signs of anything else. I asked a fashionable milliner the other day if he had any small hats. "O, yes," he said, "a few for old ladies and some plain ones for motoring."

"That's all. We can't sell them if

GOWNS FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

Deep Tucks Add Much to Usefulness of the Garment.

In making gowns for growing girls it is well to provide for the outgrowing of the garment in advance, without spoiling the effect in the beginning by making them too large and ill-fitting.

For instance, the belts of the dresses may be set up on the waistband instead of on the edge.

In this way one is enabled to lengthen the waist line by setting the belt down some two inches. It is usually in this particular that the gown is first apt to need lengthening.

Deep tucks are much in vogue, and are exceedingly convenient for this purpose. It is quite easy to leave enough space between each of two tucks to enable one to take others on the wrong side under the wider ones.

These will not show at all, and can be let out as needed, without any other change in the skirt.

The outgrowing of the sleeves may be provided against in a measure by setting the cuffs up, instead of joining at the edge of the sleeves.

Also tiny little tucks may be taken at the bend of the elbow at the inside seam.

All these little points add to the lifetime of a frock, and mean a great saving to a busy mother.

NOVEL USE OF MALINETTE.

Pretty Neck Dressings Can Easily Be Made at Home.

Since maline has been brought out in a water-proofed quality, styled as malinette, some very beautiful neck dressings have been shown in this diaphanous fabric. The shops are asking goodly prices for these novelties, but the handy women can make the same things at home at a comparatively small part of the price asked for the ready-made articles. A combination of white point d'esprit and white malinette is shown in this neck ruche, trimmed with white satin ribbons. The ruche, which is some three-quarters of a yard in length and about seven inches thick, is made of four very full ruffles of the spotted net, each wider than the other and set on an inch wide band of white satin. The edges of these four ruffles are finished with full pleatings of the malinette, giving a soft fluffy effect, which is possible with no other material. The dampness in the air only serves to give it more body, so that after all a ruche of it is quite a satisfactory investment. The rounded ends of the ruche are finished with short and long loops of white satin ribbon depending from large rosettes.

they are small." However, because large hats are being worn, do not go to extremes and get the largest one you can find. Unless you can have many hats, be moderate in your choice of sizes and colors.

Purple, in all its regal splendor, has been overdone in the large cities, and its life will be a short one. It seems the most difficult thing in the world to make a color fashionable and not common. Women jumped at purple, bought it in gowns, hats, stockings, boas, and every imaginable garment—so much so that the more exclusive set are avoiding it.

This latter class have turned their favor toward peacock blues, soft browns, tea greens, all of which are colors that will stand the test of a second season's wear.

All hats must tilt down. Most of the shapes are modified forms of the mushroom, falling rather low in the back and are worn well off the face. No bandeaus are worn in most of the large hats, but if any is used, it must be even all around the crown and not over a half inch in width.

This gives just enough place to put your hatpins through; but many of the handsomest hats are made absolutely without bandeau, setting close on the head. Nothing is raised at all.

Little mocking birds are among the newest ideas in hat trimming, their appearance being caused by the demand for the peculiar tinge of blue-green which is found on the plumage of this bird. They are not cheap, but are exceedingly smart on a hat that blends those shades.

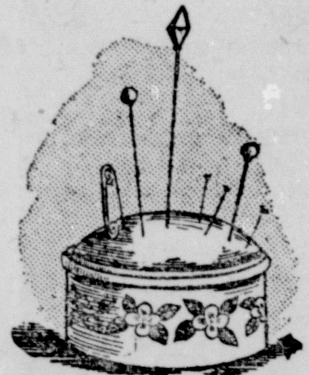

Another new idea is the square bows of velvet ribbon such as are pictured. This effect is made by wiring the ribbon two ways across the ribbon and directly through the middle. It is a very up-to-date trimming and helps to fill in around the crown of the larger shapes.

Embroidered bands of hand work are being used around the crowns of velvet hats to give them a bit of life. These hats are to be purchased in shops where Japanese trimmings are carried and sell from $1.75 up. To an otherwise dull hat they give a dash and style that is inimitable. Sometimes a buckle is made of heavy buckram and covered with this gay embroidery instead of running the band around the crown.

FOR THE TOILET TABLE.

Useful Cushion Designed for Hatpins and Other Articles.

When a pincushion is intended for hatpins it should not be of a very light nature, or it may easily overbalance. A useful little pincushion is shown in our sketch that is not likely to overturn. It consists of a small white jar, on the outer side of which a pretty little floral design has been painted. A circular cushion, covered with velvet, is made to exactly fit the interior, and this is fastened in with glue. To finish off the cushion a ribbon with a bow on either side may be tied round the neck of the jar. The cushion should be filled with emery powder, mixed with bran or sawdust, to keep the points of the pins quite smooth. It should be packed as full as possible to make the cushion both hard and heavy.

To Hemstitch on Sewing Machine.

Hemstitching, which can hardly be distinguished from the hand work, and which may be done much more speedily, may be done on the sewing machine in this way: First, draw the number of threads desired, in the goods to be hemstitched, then fold the hem over and baste the edge of the hem in the center of the drawn threads. Now loosen the tension on the sewing machine and stitch exactly along the edge of the hem. Pull the bastings out, and taking the goods in one hand and the hem in the other, pull the edge of the hem to the bottom of the drawn threads and your work is finished. Tucks hemstitched in this way make a pretty finish for children's clothes, and they are so much more quickly done than by hand.

Black Satin Costume.

It may be mentioned that a black liberty satin very much on this order, the bodice being an intermixture of black satin and mousseline, with additions of jet to the passanterie empiement, had a special elegance of its own, and bore distinct evidence of the extreme modishness this year of handsome black gowns.—Vogue.

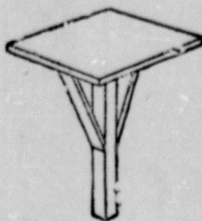

THE DAIRY

A MILKING STOOL

On Which the Top is Braced to the Standard.

My milking stool idea may be helpful to others, writes a correspondent of Farm and Home. I think it an improvement on the old-fashioned T stool, which soon becomes loose where standard and top are fastened together. Two braces are nailed to it, as shown in the cut and there is no danger of its ever becoming loose.

GARGET.

An Ailment of Cows at Calving Time and How to Treat It.

Garget or caked udder is quite a common trouble which occurs usually just before or just after calving. The udder becomes hard and the glands are enlarged and feverish. There are usually no bad consequences from the trouble unless it is neglected. It is caused by a large supply of milk remaining in the udder and is sometimes aggravated by neglecting to milk out or by the cow standing in a draft of cold air. In cases of this kind it is not well to milk the cow out clean as the irritation caused by milking makes matters worse. The best procedure is to only partially empty the udder and then reduce the inflammation with a fomentation of warm water. The mere suckling of a hungry calf and the working of the teats will sometimes help. It is also well to rub the affected parts well with the palm of the hand after each milking and rub in a little camphorated ointment or some unsalted lard or oily substance. It takes several days to get rid of the trouble.

WHAT MILK COSTS.

Result of Tests by the Cornell University Experiment Station.

In a year's observation and record keeping with the dairy cows, their feed, etc., Cornell university finds the cost of producing milk as follows:

1st. With a fairly good herd, carefully fed and kept, milk can be produced for 65 cents a hundred pounds, and fat for 16 cents a pound for the cost of the food consumed.

2d. That individuals of the same breed vary more widely in milk and butter production than do the breeds themselves.

3d. The large animals consumed less pounds of dry material per 1,000 pounds live weight a day than did the smaller animals.

4th. That in general the best yields of fat were obtained from cows that gave at least a fairly large flow of milk.

5th. In general, the cows consuming the most food produced both milk and fat at the lowest rate.

6th. For the production of milk and fat there is no food as cheap as good pasture grass.

STRIPPINGS.

Some dairy stables are free boarding houses.

The proof of the butter is the smell of the churn.

Better cows, better feed, better care of milk make sure better profits.

Light, pure air and cleanliness are the three cardinal needs of the dairy stable.

If a cow is to be kept clean the stall where she stands must not be too wide.

It is more profitable to have four cows of great producing power than to have eight cows of ordinary producing power.

The best way that I have found to keep cream without ice in summer is to dig a hole 12 feet deep and four feet square near the separator house. As soon as cream is separated put it in a bucket with tight lid and hang it in the hole.

In a test between hand and machine milking the machine won out. They stripped the cows cleaner than when milked by hand. One man can care for five machines and with them milk a herd of ten cows in about one-fourth of the time required to do it by hand.

The Profitable Cow.

It is often urged that the average farmer should have a cow that can give milk profitably and whose steers will make profitable beef animals. The average production of the cows of Wisconsin is about 160 pounds of butter per year per cow; then will not the average cow of the average farmer fail to make any profit in butter production, and observation teaches us that there is no profit in raising the steers from those cows. Is it not better to have a cow that can do one thing at a profit than it is to have one that can do two things at a loss? And the breeding of dairy cows with the milking function highly developed and capable of perpetuating that function in their offspring, is sufficiently difficult, without being handicapped by trying to breed the opposite or beefing temperament in the same animal.—E. C. Jacobs.

NEEDED ON DAIRY FARM.

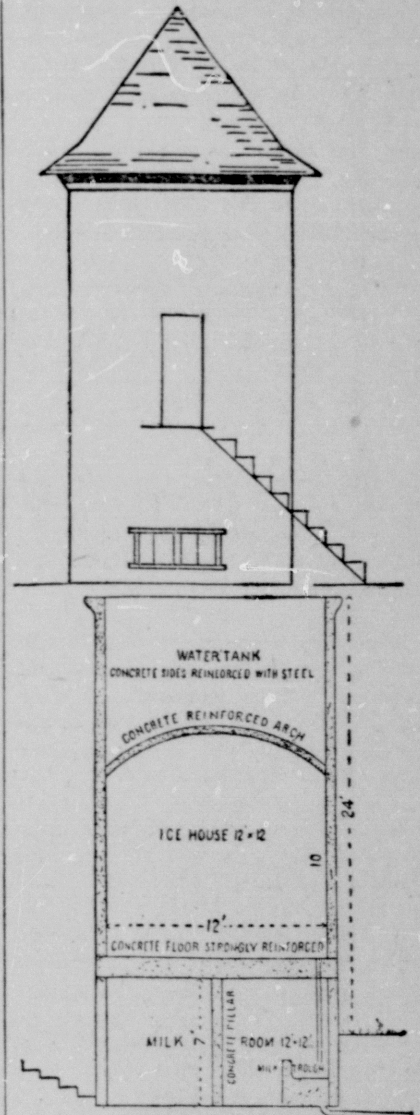

A Good Plan for Dairy with Icehouse and Water Tank.

Every farmhouse needs three things, a dairy room, cool, clean, sanitary, convenient, a store of ice and an abundant supply of water. Fortunately all of these can easily be secured in one building, and that may be a very slightly and even pleasing building in appearance. We will, of course, build it of concrete, the sides may be of plain plaster effect, if rough all the better, and afterwards covered with vines and creepers. A foreword about the finishing of concrete walls. They may be plastered after the forms are taken away. This is not the cheap way, nor does it always look best. They may be etched with acid to take away the newness and rawness; this gives a very pretty effect. Or they may be hammered with a rough faced hammer, similar to what cooks use for making tender beef steak; this also gives a nice roughness. The plain plaster wall looks better, usually, than the wall made of blocks imitating stone; the latter is too monotonous.

It is not practicable to color the whole mass of concrete to imitate brick, since it would take too much coloring matter. The best color is the dry iron ore red. It might be put on as a wash after the wall was complete.

I have given this building much thought to make it come within the cost that can be afforded by any well-to-do farmer, continues Joseph E. Wing in Breeders' Gazette. We will make it 13x13; wall six inches thick, which will be ample as they will be reinforced with steel. The walls and floors will take about 40 yards of material—that is, 40 yards of coarse stuff for concrete and as many barrels of cement.

Ample reinforcement will be provided for the walls if there is a vertical one-half inch rod each 24 inches of wall, and a horizontal one of the same diameter for each foot of height. Better a thin wall so reinforced than a thick one without reinforcement. Build up to the level of the bottom of the icehouse floor and erect also a pillar of concrete, well reinforced, 12x12 inches, in the middle of the milkroom, then put a girder across from wall to wall of strongly reinforced concrete, the girder eight inches thick and 12 inches deep. There should be two rods in the underside of this girder, each one one and one-fourth inch in diameter, and the ends turned up into the thickness of the wall a few inches. These will be all the heavy reinforcing irons needed. Over this girder lay the concrete floor to hold the ice. It must be well reinforced. Use one-half inch steel bars, the best are the corrugated sort, and space them eight inches apart in each direction, crossing each other. Lay these bars on the wooden floor, but hold them up from it about three-fourths of an inch by driving little nails under them. On them lay your concrete floor six inches thick. Make it of good strong concrete, using about one part cement, two parts clean coarse sand and five parts clean coarse gravel or broken stone. Finish it with a face of one inch of good stuff that will make it water tight and smooth. There will be need of putting through this floor three pipes, they should be in the corners, one for filling the water tank, one for overflow of the water tank, one for drainage of the ice room. This latter may as well be over the water trough for the milk.

When this floor is laid the walls may rise above it to the bare of the arch under the water tank. Here a very thorough reinforcement must be given so that the arch will not by its thrust bulge the walls. The thickness of the arch need be no more than six inches and the reinforcement as for the floor below.

The cost of it all in good finish should be between $500 and $600.

BY CARNES & WALLACE

BRYAN, TEXAS, JANUARY 17, 1908.

Last Sunday only three saloons were open in San Antonio. Is the millennium coming?

Some debutantes are very enthusiastic in anticipation of Leap Year possibilities. Those who have had experience are not so sanguine.

The breweries are going to pay the wages of policemen to watch rough-house saloons in Galveston, to see that the laws are enforced.

A New York alderman thinks women ought not to be allowed to smoke in public. Another instance of "ze manifest infairority of ze tyrant saix!"

"Give the newspaper paragraph a little time, and he'll close this panic up," said Lafayette Young of the Des Moines Capital, at a recent meeting of the Kansas City Club.

If our exchanges are to be believed, there is a fire under a political pot in every county in Texas. In some, the pot is beginning to simmer; in others, it has already reached the boiling point.

The Republican Aid Society is still looking around for "anybody to beat Bryan." As all Democrats of presidential size, or anywhere near it, are for Bryan, they will have to be content with a scrub-candidate.

Some nervous people are apprehensive that the Japs will blow up our Pacific fleet, as the Maine was blown up in the harbor of Havana. If the Japs are as wise as they are supposed to be, they will profit by the example of Spain.

George Ade, of Indiana, wants to go to the Republican National Convention as a Fairbanks delegate—and Major Mose Harris, of Texas, is nursing a similar ambition, but both are such incorrigible jokers that nobody takes them seriously.

The czar has sent large bunches of obstreperous members of the douma into exile in Siberia. If some people in Texas had the czar's power, most of the members of the Thirtieth Legislature would now be in the Northern part of Alaska.

Justice Harlan thinks a war with Japan is not imminent, but that a conflict for supremacy in the Pacific is inevitable—some time in the near future. He thinks the United States, as the surest means of safety, should the largest navy in the world.

Newspapers still publish blood-curdling tales of the ferocious "mountain lion," but those who have seen the so-called "lion" in his habitat, know him to be a coward, notwithstanding his great strength. The writer knows a Brewster county girl, since married, who killed several of them and she thought no more of it than of shooting a jack rabbit.

Some of our exchanges are worried nearly to death because the farmers persist in talking some politics, instead of taking their advice and working all the time—and leave the politics entirely to the politicians. The fact is, there is not one farmer in a dozen who devotes as much time to the study of political conditions, and the means of improving them, as all farmers should. They should be especially on their guard against the fellows who are shouting to them to work harder and spend less.

Most Republicans admit the evil of the present tariff law, and the need of reform, but they say the tariff must be reformed by its friends. This reminds us of the Indian elephant that inadvertently stepped on a mother quail, leaving a nestful of fledglings, sympathetically sighing, "I will be a mother to you, poor orphan birdies;" so she sat down on the nest, crushing the life out of them. This illustrates the only kind of tariff reform we will ever get from the G. O. P. elephant.

Years ago the German universities discarded the old German alphabet, substituting the Roman letters used by other civilized nations. More recently the English language was taught in all the high schools. The latest move in the linguistic progress is the compulsory teaching of English in all the public schools of the German empire. German statesmen see that the safety of their country depends on cultivating close relations with England and America.

AN ASTONISHING RECORD.

Fort Worth Livestock Market Has Broken All Records in Growth. The Texas livestock market at Ft. Worth has broken all records in growth, and shows receipts for the year 1907, of 1,641,113 head of stock. This total is made up of 1,022,074 cattle; 487,679 hogs; 112,853 sheep, and 18,507 horses and mules.

The Annual Review of the livestock market, by the Fort Worth Daily Livestock reporter, from which we obtain these figures, makes a comparison of the growth of the Fort Worth market and others. Only four of the great markets are now ahead of the Texas market, and these are, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, and Omaha; and at the present rate of growth, the last two will be passed this year. Fort Worth is "pointing with pride" to the fact that it received more than a million head of cattle in the fourth year of that market's existence, while it took St. Louis twenty-eight years to get up to a million a year. Chicago required eleven years, Kansas City seventeen years and Omaha the same.

Fort Worth is now next to Chicago, the greatest calf market in the world. Sales of calves at Fort Worth in 1907 were 362,790; Chicago sold 410,000; Kansas City's record was 284,000.

Comparative figures of receipts for the years 1907 and 1906, are as follows:

A MORE BEAUTIFUL AMERICA.

An Illustrated Lecture by Mr. Weed on Landscape Gardening.

A great many of the campus people and a large number of cadets were given a treat in the form of an illustrated lecture on "Landscape Gardening," by Mr. Weed of Chicago. He took up "Landscape Gardening," as found mainly in cemeteries, around railroad stations, and in city parks. He showed how with but little expenditure of time and money marvelously beautifying results could be accomplished in but a short time. In regard to cemeteries he showed how when skillfully and artistically kept they would not only have the appearance of a cemetery but also of a well kept park. He also showed how railroad stations could be beautified by an addition of shrubbery placed in an imposing position. Mr. Weed succeeded in showing how what seemed to be unredeemable spots had been converted into beautiful city parks in which hundreds of children spent their spare time at play.

One of the illustrations in which the most remarkable results appeared to have been obtained consisted in showing the work done by the "Children's Aid Society." Through the efforts of these children a most unsightly looking alley was reclaimed from its filth and converted into a back yard, that would have been a credit to almost any home.

Mr. Weed stated that the movement of beautifying cities and eradicating such things as were unnecessary and detrimental to the appearance of city, was progressing at a rapid rate and that the motto of the American Civic Society, viz., "A more beautiful America," was rapidly bringing forth its fruit.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well. If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is cloudy, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerve, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's a congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure. Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

EUGENE EDGE'S "SKIDDOO" SALE.

"Twenty-three" is the Signal for the Great Goods-Moving Event, and the Lucky Number for—Who? Saturday, Jan. 18, at 8:23 a. m., Eugene Edge will inaugurate the first great "Skiddoo Sale" ever held in Bryan, and the big merchandise moving event will continue through twelve busy days, closing Friday, Jan. 31, at 7:23 p. m. "Twenty-three" is the mystical numerical symbol for the great slaughter of values all over the house, and nothing will be spared. The word has gone forth that everything must move and must go in a hurry.

Big Preparations.

Mr. Edge is overlooking no detail and sparing neither pains or expense in his preparation for a record breaking distribution of everything in the dry goods line among the people of Bryan and Brazos and surrounding counties. In addition to his advertising, he has provided an elaborate canvas front for the store and will have the interior decorated and every article marked with the "Skiddoo" Green Tag. An extra force of salesmen will be on hand to wait upon customers promptly.

Will You Be Twenty-three?

A big bell will be suspended at the cashier's elevated desk, and a strict account of the number of customers will be kept. Every twenty-third sale will be absolutely free to the customer making the purchase. The bell will sound the signal and the money as well as the goods will be sent back in the basket to the customer. Will YOU be No. 23? If so, your purchase will be free—whether large or small.

$30,000 Worth of Goods.

This is the offering of the "Big Store on the Corner, and, remember, every article in the house is included, so that everybody has a chance to make good. Be on hand when the bell taps. You cannot fail to get a bargain, and you may get an armful of goods for nothing.

Our next lyceum entertainers will be Charles R. Taggart and Stanley L. Krebs.

Mr. Taggart has had engagements with us for the last two years, but at each time was unable to keep his appointment. It is hoped that he will be successful this time and that we will get to hear this most popular entertainer. February the first is the date on which he will occupy the platform.

Dr. Krebs comes to us on February the eleventh for the first time, but with high recommendations. His field is the Human Mind and its Marvels and under this head he has many subjects from which to select for his discourse. Wherever else he has spoken his lecture has been entertaining and instructive in a marked degree and we feel sure that this will be the case with us.

SIDE STEPS AT OPERA HOUSE.

Opera House Fire at Boyertown, Pa., Suggests Much Needed Improvement.

The great fire in the opera house at Boyertown, Pa., details of which appeared in the Eagle yesterday morning, showing that probably 165 people perished, and some 75 more were injured, has given rise to the suggestion that more exits should be provided for the Grand opera house in this city, and that the improvements should be made at once, and not after some holocaust has swept down upon the community. The opera house is often so packed that a panic could hardly be averted should a fire occur at such a time, and when it is considered that the school exhibitions are held there, and that the danger is no new idea among parents, it would seem to be folly to longer delay the matter.

The Eagle does not know whether it is the business of the lessee or the city council to have more exits provided, but we voice a crying need when we contend that it should be done at once. A simple and inexpensive way to provide means of egress, would be to place doors in one of the windows on each side of the house, and run stairways down alongside of the building, in such a manner as not to interfere with the doors of the fire station. These might be kept closed while the house is filling, and opened after each performance or in case of danger, a man being stationed at each door when crowds are present, for that purpose.

The Eagle does not consider any individual to blame for this condition of the city hall building, but rather regards it as matter of community neglect. Let us have side exits and stairs at once.

LADIES WILL ENTERTAIN.

Friday, Jan. 24. Will Witness Brilliant Leap Year Dance.

At a well attended and enthusiastic meeting of married and unmarried ladies of this city, held yesterday morning at the Elks' parlors, plans were made for a brilliant Leap Year dance, which will be given on the evening of Friday, Jan. 24, at which time the ladies will unite in the returning compliments to the gentlemen for the many pleasant affairs which have been enjoyed in the past. The Imperial Orchestra, which is arranging a Texas circuit, will supply music, and committees have been appointed to look after all the details. Mrs. Tyler Haswell has been made chairman of the arrangement committee; Mrs. Jno. E. Astin, reception committee; Mrs. J. A. McQueen, floor committee, and Miss Nellie Smith, finance committee.

LID HAS BEEN TAKEN OFF.

Limit of $25.00 on Checks of Depositors Was Discontinued Yesterday—Conditions Again Normal.

In common with banks throughout the country, the local banks have removed the limit on the amount drawn by depositors which has been in effect some months, as a means of safeguarding the financial condition of the country during the money stringency. The lid was taken off yesterday, but the day's business was in no respect different from the ordinary. With restoration of the financial equilibrium in the East, and in the larger cities of the country, confidence has been entirely restored, and the panic may be said to be at an end. Times will probably be hard on account of short crops until another crop is made, but there is every reason to believe that there will be a general revival of business throughout the country.

Horses Taken to Stables Just Before Disaster.

SAD, SICKENING SCENES.

Bodies of One Hundred and Sixty-Two Victims of the Panic and Fire at Boyertown, Pa., Placed in the Four Improvised Morgues.

Boyertown, Pa., Jan. 15.—With the opening of four improvised morgues in which are the bodies of the victims of Monday night's theater holocaust the inhabitants of this little borough began to realize the awful extent of the tragedy. The hand of sorrow has touched probably every family in the town and neighboring villages. Where families were not directly affected by the terrible panic, and a fire through the loss of relatives they are mourning for the loss of friends or acquaintances. The gruesome scenes following the disaster brings a shudder to the stoutest heart, and many thousands who come as curiosity seekers have gone away declaring they never want to witness another sight like it.

Four buildings used as morgues contain 162 bodies. Jacob Johnson, who was badly hurt in the mad rush for exit from the burning building, has died.

Coroner Strasser is making an investigation preliminary to the official inquest. "It is the saddest picture I ever looked upon," he said. "No living person can depict the scene. It is simply indescribable. I shall make a thorough investigation, leading up to what I consider the most horrible affair that ever occurred in eastern Pennsylvania."

The coroner's attention was called to the fact that the oil lamps were used for footlights in the opera house in place of stationary illumination. He said he would make a thorough investigation.

But two members of the cast so far as can be learned were killed. This was due to the precaution taken by Mrs. Della Mayer. She had a premonition that something would happen. At a luncheon given to the members of the cast in a hall several days ago, she said she feared something. "There ought to be a means of escape," she said. The rear entrance was spoken of, and at her suggestion the doors were taken off the hinges so in case of accident egress would easily be accomplished.

Henry W. Fisher of Carlisle, Pa., who operated the calcium lights, which was the original cause of the terrible disaster, made his escape from the burning building, though not without first receiving severe burns. Mr. Fisher said: "The accident to the calcium lights was caused by the cap on one of the tanks on a calcium light blowing out. This caused a sharp report and a flash which startled the people in the audience. I stuck to my apparatus and finally got the leak repaired and succeeded in quieting the alarmed people. Just as had them calm, the foolish action of some frightened person on the stage caused the upsetting of a footlight lamp, and the consequent spread of the flames which nothing could avert. Not until then did I desert my position and seek my own safety in flight."

That the victims were not confined to residents of Boyertown is shown by the number of unclaimed teams in the city. Fully forty teams remain unclaimed for in stables and hostlers say they belong to people residing within a radius of five or six miles of Boyertown, who drove to this place on Monday with their families to witness the production of the "Scottish Reformation." There is no clue to the identity of the owners of a number of teams.

NO POSTPONEMENT.

Commission Hears Argument on Fare Reduction.

Austin, Jan. 14.—The railroad commission convened in open hearing Tuesday to consider several questions on the January docket. A large array of railroad men were in attendance, drawn on account of the proposed reduction of passenger fare. This question was reached at 11 o'clock and when it was called no one appeared in support of it, although the commission was overwhelmed with petitions opposing reduction.

Judge Terry of the Santa Fe suggested that question be postponed until next hearing, as the taking of testimony of injunction suits will start before that time, and evidence gathered will be permanent to this proposition; that it would educate both sides; also that no existing emergency demands this action right now; that when citizens wanted reduction in any rate that they never hesitate to come before the commission and ask for it; that right now the country was in the throes of a panic and railroad revenues have been greatly reduced; that an experiment of this magnitude should not be tried now; that the delay in taking testimony in injunction suits was no fault of the railroad, as up to ten days ago the commission had failed to employ a stenographer, besides Mr. Cowan had been out of the state and would be until the fourth week in the month, at which time the taking of testimony would begin.

Judge Stedman said that the delay was caused on account of a misunderstanding as to the order appointing R. U. Culberson as commissioner.

Attorney Frank Andrews said that the commission has just inaugurated a system looking to the physical improvements of roads, and with the present financial depression the roads were trying to get business, while heretofore they have been trying to get equipment. He asked that in justice to the roads they be allowed to get experience from this depressed period without further depression on the part of the commission.

At this point, J. M. Craddock of Terrell, representing the United Commercial Travelers, addressed the commission, saying that the legislature had postponed this idea and the governor also postponed it, and furthermore the commission has postponed it several times, and now the time has arrived for the commission to adjust it. The commission declined to postpone it.

Mr. Craddock presented a written statement to the commission, which bristled with generalities as to railroads and traveling men. He said that $1,000,000 is spent daily in the United States by traveling men in railroad fare, and for the past six years gross earnings of railroads have been 100 per cent. He warned the railroads against fighting this proposition, as it was bound to come.

J. W. Orr of Atchison, Kan., an attorney for the Missouri Pacific and director of the Beaumont and Great Northern, asked the commission to exempt his line should it reduce the rate, as it was engaged in extending its property and reduced rates would hurt it. As to 2 cent fares in Kansas and Nebraska, he said they were put in by railroads pending litigation in Federal court.

The commission postponed until next hearing the readjustment of rates on return of refrigerator boxes, etc.; also proposition readjusting rates on oak cross ties.

Brownsville differential was postponed until end of docket.

Proposition to put pump jacks under third-class rates was taken under advisement; also proposition to readjust macaroni rates and make them same as interstate rates.

Readjustment of lumber rates on international and Great Northern was taken under advisement.

BAILEY'S STATEMENT.

Advises Friends as to the Course to Be Pursued.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Senator Bailey has given out a statement with reference to political matters in the Lone Star state. It is addressed "To the Democrats of Texas." The document reviews events in which he has been the central figure. The senator states among other things that he was renominated by the Democratic primaries and without protest by the state convention and elected by an overwhelming majority by a Democratic legislature since he has been fought. Reference is also made to the six weeks' legislative investigation, resulting in his acquittal on all charges made.

Senator Bailey says many friends have written him asking what is the best course to pursue in the coming campaign. He advises them not to revive the issue of "Baileysism" where it can be honorably avoided, but when forced to do so "we will meet it in such a manner as to teach the Texans of this generation to accept as final, at least until the next election, the action of a Democratic primary in nominating and of a Democratic legislature in electing a Democratic nominee to the United States senate."

HER SKULL FRACTURED.

Young Lady of Houston Seriously Hurt In a Runaway at That City.

Houston, Jan. 14.—Miss A. Goforth had her skull fractured in a runaway accident and is now lying unconscious and dangerously hurt at the Houston Infirmary, as a result of a four-fold runaway accident that occurred on Market plaza Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. Horses attached to a barbecue wagon ran away and frightened another team and this another on the crowded streets. The third team ran over the vehicle in which the young lady and her aunt were driving and both were thrown to the ground. Several vehicles were smashed in the accident.
